SLAVE LABOR AND ITS PRODUCTS-THE MA-TERIAL PHILOSOPHY OF ABOLITIONISM .- The great questions that divide the opinions of individuals and constitute the basis of political parties in this country, at this time, grow out of African slavery. The current of popular thought seems to have received a new stimulus, and public feeling appears to be aroused to a painful state of irritation on both sides. Why this state of affairs bould exist, it would be difficult for any one to determine, who was called on calmly and dispassionately to solve the perplexing problem. Slavery is an institution which was inaugurated in the States anterior to their existence as independent sovereignties, and it was left by the framers of the Constitution in the same condition that they found it. The control of it was left to the States in which it existed. There it has remained from that day to this. The nation in every part of it has prospered beyond all precedent in history; and in agriculture, manufactures, the mechanic arts, and commerce, the United States have, with astonishing rapidity, developed a capacity and achieved a degree of eminence that are at once the wonder and admiration of the worl!. Prominent amongst the material elements of our national wealth, prosperity, and power stand the products of slave These products give vitality to our foreign and domestic commerce, and furnish the try. The articles that are ranked among the necessaries of life are nearly all the results of slave labor. Sugar, coffee, molasses, cotton, hemp, tobacco, and rice are among the articles that almost everybody uses, and these are all the product of slave labor. Those people who have engaged in a crusade against slaverypeople who would sever the bonds of this glorious Union to illustrate an abstract idea in ethnological casuistry-should first vindicate the elevation of their designs and the sincerity of their faith by refusing to purchase and use the products of slave labor. They must learn to treat slavery as an element, and a most important one too, of the productive industry of States, and recognize it as the chief regulator of commerce among nations. Slavery is not an isolated system, but is derives facilities from the most common, as well as the most innocent transactions. It blends itself not only with the business and supplies the wants of the people at home, but it extends its influence to remote countries and links the interests of foreign States firmly to its own. The economical value of slavery as an agency for supplying the means of extending commerce and manufactures has long been known and properly ry alone, as an isolated system, might be feeble at the South than has resulted to either Virginia benefit conferred on the two free States that when we come to apply the remark to by slave labor. It has driven her looms, fed her people, and expanded her commerce, till her flag floats at the masthead of her ships in every sea. The discovery of the power of steam, the improvement in machinery, and the invention of the power-loom for manufacturing cotton goods revealed the important fact that a single island in the ocean, having secured to itself the monopoly of cheap cotton, cheap labor, and imclothing. This discovery, made by the people of Great Britain, stimulated their productive terprise, and inaugurated a new system of politico-commercial philosophy. Henceforward, England's policy was to acquire commercial with nations, not to fight them. This policy she has pursued with remarkable persistence and eminent success. But while it has expanded her commerce, given employment to her people, added to her wealth, and established her power, it has, at the same time, made her dependent for a continuance of these blessings upon slave labor and its products. An English journal, speaking of the dependence of that country upon the United States for a supply of cotton, holds this language: "Let any great social or physical convulsion visit the United States and England would feel the shock from Lands-end to John O'Groats. The lives of nearly two millions of our countrymen are dependent upon the cotton crops of America; their destiny may hang upon a thread. Should any dire calamity befall the land of cotton, thousand of our merchant ships would rot idly in dock; ten thousand mills must stop their busy looms; and two thousand thousand mouths would starve for lack of food to feed them." This condition of dependence is not confined to England, but it may be traced in all the great nations of Christendom and in none more than our own. Leaving out of view the slave products of tobacco, sugar, and rice, we ask if the prosperity of the free States have not been promoted by the growth of cotton as much as has been that of England? Let the cotton lords of Lowell and of Providence answer the question. In New England, as in old England, it has built up factories on every stream where water falls, it has planted the steam power-loom where there was no water to be had, and it has reared a commercial navy which bears the stars and stripes to every port in every sea, it has given profitable employment to the laboring portion of their people, and it has enriched their employ-While slave labor and its employers have ers. been doing all this, the chief recipients of the benefits it conferred have been warring with the institution of slavery, and striving to injure and embarrass slaveholders. A senseless cry of abolish, abolish slavery, has been raised without pausing to inquire what effect such a proceeding, if it could be successful, would have upon the business of the world. In the quotation we have given, the "social convulsion" of which the writer speaks refers to the abolition of slavery, the effect of which would be to interfere with and prevent a full supply of cotton; for if there is any one thing that is well settled it is that African slave labor is more suitable to and is more profitably employed in the production of tropical products than free white labor. Everybody uses groceries, and we are almost solely dependant upon slave labor for them. Our imports of coffee, tobacco, sugar, and molasses for 1853 amounted to $38,479,000, of which $34,451,000 came from Cuba and Brazil, and of course were the products of the labor of slaves. Until men are content for conscience? sake to refuse to use any article that slaves promeans of regulating the exchanges of the counduce, they will not be believed to be sincere in their clamor for the abolition of slavery. That philosophy must be false indeed which clings with affection to the substance of the thing it denounces. The doctors who teach that slavery is malum in se, and yet hold that it is not sinful to cherish it by purchasing and using its products, will ever fail to impress people with the conviction that they have an earnest and full faith in the truthfulness of their own teachings.

Slavery has so thoroughly incorporated itself with all the material interests of mankind that it cannot now be treated as a theological question, which may be discussed and settled with the same facility that a council of bishops would establish an article of faith in a sectarian creed. The question that now presses for an answer is, not whether slavery is a sin per se, but whether so mingled with the business of the world that it it is not a necessity with which we cannot dispense. This is a problem the solution of which would require more elaboration than the scanty columns of a newspaper will allow, but it may be proper to remark that there are no indications given in any quarter to justify a belief that slavery will ever be abolished in the United States. The institution of slavery at this time gives indications of a vitality never before witnessed. Its enemies, ever predicting appreciated by statesmen. And although slave- its overthrow, and proclaiming that it was just about to expire from the blows that they had in its results, yet when taken in connection with inflicted upon it, behold with amazement that and as an auxiliary of free labor it becomes a the enemy which they thought had been beaten most potent agency for the achievement of mag- back has advanced in all the elements of nificent results. We think it might be shown strength; and is now prepared to do battle more that Massachusetts and Rhode Island have de- vigorously than at any former time. Slavery rived more benefit from the existence of slavery cannot be abolished by denunciation; the abolitionists may anathematize slavery and slaveholor Carolina, where the slaves are owned. But ders till doomsday, and, while they permit its whatever doubt we may have as to the material pecuniary element to exert its influence, the institution will exist. If this view of we have just named, there can be none the subject be a true one, and we think that it cannot be successfully impugned, it follows, that England. The wealth and power of England a dissolution of the Union would not destroy have grown chiefly from the sustenance supplied the institution of slavery. On the contrary it would impart to it increased energy, and a more active vitality. Left to itself, with no moral influences to modify it, no compromises to make, no interests but its own to consult, it would predicate its plans upon the basis of its own exigencies, and solve its problems by the rules of its own philosophy. But there is another class of people who disclaim any purpose to abolish slavery in the States where it exists; proved machinery, could supply the world with they affect to regard slavery as an evil, and because they have assumed it to be such, they proclaim it to be their intent to restrict slavery to industry to energetic activity, it prompted them the States in which it now exists. They deny to explore new and more expanded fields for en- the constitutional right of the people of the South to share in the territory which may have been, or that hereafter shall be acquired, and boldly avow a determination to prevent the inrather than physical dominion, and to trade troduction into the Union of any more slave States. The consideration of this phase of Abolitionism we shall make the subject of another article.

THE UNITED STATES AND FRANCE.-The reader will recollect that many months ago some difficulty occurred with Dillon, the French consul at San Francisco. The French Minister of Foreign Affairs demanded that Mr. Dillon should have a salute when his flag was hoisted, and Mr. Marcy uniformly refused to make any recognition whatever. Since that time no progress has been made in the affair, for the reason that the French Cabinet insisted upon the position which it had taken, while the American Cabinet as firmly insisted on its own. The affair has been recently brought before the American Minister in a manner to convince him that the time for a settlement had arrived, and that further delay would only embarrass the case. The American Minister, by some means, has seen the letters written by this Mr. Dillon to the French State Department, and these letters are said to be so insulting and so outrageous toward the Government and people of the United States that our Minister has not only peremptorily refused to make any concessions on the position long ago taken by Mr. Marcy, but he has deemed the case of sufficient importance to make it the subject of a strong recommendation to the Government at Washington to take some official action against Mr. Dillon.

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] THE PARADISE OF DREAMS. When the heart is growing weary Of the toils and cares of life-Or the tolis and cares of life-of this journey, dark and deary, Thro'a world of constant strife, Gentle Sleep, with sweet caresses, Comes to calm the aching breast, And the wearled spirit blesses With an hour of tranquil rest.
Then the kind dream angel's fingers
Gently touch the throbbing brain,
And the mind no longer lingers In a land of woe and pain; But away on airy pinions
The unfettered fancy flies,
To the ever-fair dominions Of the Dreamland Paradise!

'Tis a land of constant gladness— That bright land of which I dream-Where no gloomy cloud of sadness Ever shadows o'er life's stream. Joyous spring is always laugh In the vigor of her youth; And the soul is ever quaffing From the crystal fount of truth. There no brow is ever clouded
With a thought of earthly care,
And the mind is never shrouded In the dark robes of despair. And the chime of cherub voices Softly greets the raptured ears
'Till the inmost soul rejoices
With the music of the spheres!

Visions fair and holv meet me 'Till my heart is all aglow; Old familiar voices greet me That were silenced long ago And again I am a lover Sitting 'neath our fav'rite tree While the birds, asinging, hover Closely o'er my love and me O, the deep and strong emotion That instinctively will start; Like the heaving of the ocean Is the throbbing of my heart! Faint, indeed, seems the confession Of the love we can't control-Words can never give expressi
To the language of the soul!

Suddenly the spell is broken, And the vision flits away; Ere a parting word is spoken We are parted, and for aye!
Ah! the burning tears are stealing
Down my pale and quivering cheel
And my heart o'erflows with feeling Mortal lips may never speak; For the flower that I cherished With my first and only love Is transplanted by the angels To celestial bowers above; To celestial bowers above; But, tho' I may not go thither While life's waning taper gleams, may often commune with her In the Paradise of Dreams! INQUEST No. 83 .- An inquest was held yes terday evening at the foot of Fifth street on the body of an unknown man found floating in the He was about five feet and a half high, and had on two shirts, one white and the other blue check, dark gray-plaid tweed pantaloons, and a pair of coarse shoes. In his pockets were found two knives, a pipe, comb, and $1,50 in silver. No marks of violence being discovered, the jury rendered the verdict, "Came to his death from causes unknown, but supposed to have been drowned."

W. LEE WHITE, Coroner. INQUEST No. 84 —Held yesterday evening near the corner of Jefferson and Jackson streets, on the body of John Zimmerman. He and his wife together with an only child, arrived in this city last Friday from New Orleans. The wo-man was soon after taken sick and died yesterday morning. The man was taken the night be-fore, and died in a tew hours after the death of his wife. Owing to some suspicions in regard to the manner and circumstances of his death, an examination was made, but, from all the testimony elicited, the jury could not do otherwise than return the verdict, "Came to his death from natural causes."

INQUEST No. 85 .- Was held yesterday evening at the eastern Cemetery on the body of Henry Hass, who died suddenly several days since. After careful and thorough investigation the verdict, "Came to his death from natural causes," was rendered.

W. LEE WHITE, Coroner. A Rich Man to be Imprisoned Ten Years for Poisoning a Well.—Elias Long, of the town of Whitewater, in Walworth county, a man of wealth and considerable intelligence, having had weath and considerable intelligence, having had some difficulty, attempted to poison his wife, who had left his house and had gone to live at a neighbor's. He wanted her to sign a deed of some land; she refused to do this without a portain the state of some land; she refused to do this without a portion being paid to her. He thereupon bought arsenic and threw it into his neighbor's well From some indications, villainy was suspected. The water was not used, so no one was poisoned; but even an attempt at poison is so atrocious a crime, that, after three days' trait, the jury found him guilty. Arsenic was found in his pockets. This was one of the circumstances that aided in his conviction. Judge Doolittle sentenced Long to ten years' imprisonment in the State prison, at hard labor.

More Departures of Coal .- We learn from Stephen Thomas, superintendant of Lock No. 1, that 172 pairs of boats and barges, laden with coal, have teparted since the last rise. These craft, at a low estimate, will hold an average of 10,000 bushels each, making a total of 3,440, 10,000 bushels each, making a total of 5,440,-630 bushels. By the previous freshets, 4,862,-634 bushels had departed, which swells the entire amount to 8,302,643 bushels thus far this year. This does not include 1,397,350 which was floated down the Monongahela to Pittsburg on flats, and here disposed of to consumers.

The State of Michoacan has become the grand centre of the rebellion. The latest news from the seat of war is published in the Heraldo, of May 26th and 27th, and contained in letters from Patzacuaro, a place of considerable importance, a short distance from Morelia, and centre of Michoacan, and is to the effect that President Santa Anna arrived at that city on the 24th, and on the 26th resumed his city on the 24th, and on the 26th resumed his march toward Ario, about ten leagues distant, which is garrisoned by 2,000 of the insurgents, under the command of Gen. Commonfort. The President, says the letter of the 27th, must be near them, and news of a decisive battle was hourly expected. The President seems to retain all the vigor of his youth; age does not tell upon him, and notwithstanding the loss of his leg, still continues to travel on horseback. THE KNOW-NOTHING NATIONAL COUNCIL. PHILADELPHIA, June 14, 1855.

The proceedings of yesterday constituted the crisis—and a most trying one it was—of the na-tionality of the American organization. The fact was apparent that abolitionism, in its most hideous forms, with emboldened front and arrogant pretension, in the East, West, and North-west had not only seized the vestibule, but with wicked and unwashed hands had defaced the courts of the inner temple. The period to define positions, principles—in short, to expound Americanism, its objects and aims—had been precipitated by the estranged action of Massachusetts from known and recognized doctrines, and the demand was equal to the crisis.

It was wisely determined that the homogene-ousness of the organization should either be vindicated or the organism of the body politic resolved into its proper constituent eler with that especial object in view a series of measures, involving the very issues upon which were based the distinctive sectionalisms that invaded its national integrity, were introduced for the avowed object of the separation.

the avowed object of the separation.

Those measures, enunciating no new or unjust exactions, being as old and imperative as the enactments of the Constitution of the United States, and upon the positive requirements of the which they were based, operated as a bombshell in the general assemblage—only wounding, however, those against whom the constitutional riotic.

The full particulars of this abolition stampede I will furnish you when the deliberations of its morning caucus shall have been disclosed, which doubtless will be before the close of this communication.

Regarding, as I do, the national pronunciamento the event of the times, and a spectacle of moral grandeur unparalleled by modern political moral grandeur unparalleled by modern political deliberation and action, if leisure permitted me I would delight to eulogize the men, the act, and the deed; but, as my space is restricted, I content myself by the negative affirmation, that it was not designed, in any phase, to endorse in any particular the embecile and rotten Pierce dynasty, or the demagogue Douglas, or any of his wily schemes for place or power. Neither the one nor the other merited or received the least consideration at the hands of the Convention.—It simply met the issue, and in a constitutional way forced upon the deliberations of the body by emboldened demands of a progressive fanaticism, and now leaves to every American the exalted privilege of standing erectly and proudly upon the Constitution and laws, without the sacrifice of personal respect, duty, and integrity.

A striking fact, and one you cannot have failed to remark, has been disclosed in this discussion, and that was, that whilst the entire South was a unit on the majority platform, scarcely a member from thence, in the many speeches made by them, essayed an apology for the Kan-sas-Nebraska act; and whilst generally subscribing to the doctrine of non-intervention, nevertheless repudiated the mover and the adminis-tration which foisted it upon the country at the tremendous expenditure of plighted faith,

On Saturday, a Mr. Gallineau, a Frenchman, arrived here from Seargeant's Bluffs, and states that "Four Bears," the chief of the Kittle Band of Sioux, had just come in, bringing with him thirty lodges. That they left the main body of the Sioux at Bear creek, coming, 300 miles Wes of Fort Laramie, twenty-five days since, and that at that time the Sioux had 100 wagons, plenty of flour and meat, twenty women and children, and among them two negro women. From this we think they must have taken a Mormon train, bound from Salt Lake to Bear creek, where we know they intended making a settlement this spring. Nothing was said of steing white men among them, and we have no doubt they were all killed. Four Bears is in favor of peace, has been at Washington, and knows the power of the whites, and, finding his nation determined on war, has come in with his [Correspondence of the St. Louis Republican.] WHITEHEAD, K. T., June 9, 1855.

Mr. Henry Smith has just informed us that a man stopped at his house this morning, who told him that he had slept at the Great Nemeha Mission last night, with an express rider, who brought startling news from the Plains. It was to the effect that Fort Laramie was in the hands of the Indians, and that Messrs. Nave and Mc-Cord, of Andrew county, had been robbed, at Ash Hollow, of 420 head of cattle, 16 horses, several wagons, 23 mules and all their stores and provisions, and were left entirely destitute.

The particulars of the capture of Laramie were not given. The express merely stated that the Indians had gathered there in great force and had taken the Fort, and that, as he came by Ash Hollow on his way in to the States, he saw Messrs. Nave and McCord and their teamsters and drovers, who were without horses, or food, and stated to him the fact of the robbery, and that no lives were lost. This news s occasioned great excitement here and in St.

Use of Opium. - Opium eating and laudanum drinking, as evils of great magnitude, are attracting some attention. A recent writer in the N. Y. Evening Post presents a deplorable picture of the case of a friend who is a slave to the habit. The picture is not overdrawn; we have been personally acquainted with cases equally unfortunate. One, now in our mind, is that of the wife of a physician in Ohio, a lady of intelligence and high respectability, who is a victim of this unfortunate "disease."

So completely is she the slave of the appetite that, while in all else she is the very soul of honor and truthfulness, she hesitates not to use the grossest deception to procure regular supplies of the drug. She resorts to every possible artifice, will importune friends, bribe servants, fabricate stories of somebody's illness, and herself make long journeys, and leave no means untried to procure it.

For a time she fed her appetite, unknown to her husband. When he learned the fearful truth, he tried to arrest her fatal career, but persuasion, mana commands would restrain her, and he now quietly permits her to procure and make use of the vile drug.

She was once a brilliant ornament of the large society in which she moved—now a source of inexpressible mortification and pain to her husband and family.

When under the influence of the narcotic, she is sociable in the extreme, and a very pleasing companion; but when deprived of her now daily portion, she is lifeless and inefficient, careless of all that surrounds her and indifferent to her children. The use of opium, in its various forms, has made a perfect wreck of a lovely woman, the mother of an interesting family, and reduced her to the level of the drunkard.

While mutton, the most nutritive of animal food, contains only 29 per cent. of nutritive matter to 74 pounds of water-wheat flour contains 90 per cent. of nutriment to 10 of water, and corn meal 91 per cent. of nutriment to 9 of water. Potatoes, on the other hand, contain but 22½ per cent. of nutriment to 77½ of water; and turnips contain but  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. of nutriment to  $95\frac{1}{2}$  of water. Cabbage is but a little ment to 95½ of water. Cabbage is but a little more nutritious, containing but 7½ per cent. of nutriment. The most nutritious of all vegetable food, however, is the white bean, which yields 95 per cent. of nutriment to 5 pounds of water. Of the fruits, the cucumber is the least nutritious, and plums the most. Fish are the least nutritious of animal food. It thus appears that the most nutritious, and of course the cheapest, food for man is meats—mutton, beef, and poultry; vegetable substances—flour, bread, meal, beans, and rice.

Orson Hyde.—We published yesterday some extracts from a lot of sermons lately preached at Salt Lake City, by Elder Orson Hyde, one of the Mormon Grand Turks, and owner of several Salt Lake serglios. We learn that Orson is now in St. Louis. The object of his visit, it is said, is to make additions to his harem in the persons of ten affianced wives now in this city. said, is to make additions to his harem in the persons of ten affianced wives, now in this city, whom he will take measures to transplant to Salt Lake City. We fear that Orson is a "sad dog," and don't know what will become of him. He is, however, a thorough Mormon, and, with his old wives in Salt Lake City and his ten new ones here, will do much toward the spread of Mormonism.—St. Louis News. Mormonism.—St. Louis News.

BENEFIT OF THE ORPHANS' HOME. - We trust that every lady and gentleman will visit Mozart Hall to-night and contribute their mite to the alleviation of these poor children. The institution is greatly in want of means for the common necessities for the support of the orphans.

The members of the Board of Trustees of Public schools are earnestly requested to attend a meeting at their office this evening, as there is urgent business to be brought before them demanding immediate action.

The Crab Orchard Springs are opened for visitors. The valuable medicinal properties of its waters are well known. It is a delightful place to spend the summer.

GRINDSTONES .- The following is from a correspondent of the Progressive Farmer. As the period of harvest is approaching, it furnishes a hint from which many farmers may profit:

I speak without fear of contradiction, when I say that more than one million dollars have been lost by the farmers in the United States, during the last half century, by their poor economy in the use of grindstones. Many a farmer, by using a poor grindstone, loses enough in one season to buy a good one. But one farmer who is very much afraid of book farming, and never read an agricultural paper in his life, steps forward and inquires how he has lost anything by grindstones? He says he uses the same one now that his father gave to him fifteen years ago-and then it was quite an old one—therefore he thinks he has been quite saving in that line of business. Perhaps it would be useless to try to convince him of his loss, for some men are wise in their own conceit, therefore there is but little hopes of improving them. Any farmer of com-mon sense, who has ciphered through simple multiplication, can tell very near how much he

We will suppose that the work can be done one-third quicker on a good stone than on a poor one; we next suppose that the time spent by a farmer and his hired man, in grinding tools during the year, amounts to twelve days; then, if one-third of this could be saved by using a good stone, here is a loss of four days. These four days' work, together with board, cannot be less than four dollars, which would buy a stone of the first quality and all its fixtures. But the loss of time occasioned by grinding on poor stones is far from being all the loss that arises from the use of such stones. The tools cannot be ground near as well, therefore the workman cannot perform as much labor, nor do it as well, as if the tools had been properly ground. In my opinion many a farmer in this country loses from two to five dollars every year by using a poor grindstone.

"ALWAYS CARRY MY MONEY HERE."-We have often laughed at the illustrations which we have had occasion to encounter of the truth of the poet's couplet:

"The faults of our neighbors with freedom we blame, But tax not ourselves though we practice the same."

A friend mentions an amusing circumstance corroborating this, of which he was himself an eve-witness:

I was standing, he said, in the railroad depot at Cincinnati, just as the train was preparing to start. There was a great crowd, as usual, in the building, and all at once a man who had put his hand in his under-coat pocket behind to take out his pocket-book to pay his fare, exclaimed, his face glowing with excitement:

"I've been robbed! There are thieves about here! Some villain has taken my pocket-book with over a thousand dollars in it!" "Where did you carry your pocket-book sir?"

"In my under coat pocket, sir, behind!" "Then, sir, you can scarcely blame the individual who has taken it," replied the other, in a very pompous, self-satisfied, patronizing manner, and in a "voice of warning," intended for the ears of all the bystanders: "Yes, sir, you nor offer, if I may say so, a temptation, a premium, sir, upon theft by carrying your money in such a place. Now, sir, I always carry my money here," he continued, putting his hand into an inside breast pocked of his coat, "and there it is always"-"Safe," he would have said; but he suddenly drew out his hand as if he had been bitten by an adder, exclaiming:

"Why, my pocket-book has gone too! Thieves!
Thieves! Thieves! Let no one go out of the

The advice was acted upon, by doing which both were found upon the floor, where they had been dropped by the adroit thief, who then mingled in the large and promiscuous crewd.

The fault of both had been a lack of personal watch ulness in such e place. Each had "practiced the same," as the sage Dogberry says, they were both "in a case."—Rochester Dem.

Agricultural Division of the Patent Office.— Grasses for reclaiming Sand-drifts on the Sea-shore.—There have been received from Holland the seeds of the sea reed (arundo arenaria), and the upright sea lyme grass (elymus arenaria), and the upright sea lyme grass (elymus arenarius), which have long been used in that country for reclaiming the sand-drifts on the sea-coast. These seeds have been imported for experiment all along the Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida. The nutritive matter of these grasses is not sufficient to make them worthy of cultivation out of the influence of the salt spray. The elymus arenarius rather exceeds the sea reed in nutritive qualities, but from the habit of the latter in its natural place of growth it is of greater utility, particularly when combined with the former, as it binds the loose sands of the sea-shore, and thereby raises a durable natural barrier against the encroachments of the ocean upon the land. Indeed, the effect of the two grasses combined in protecting coasts from the wasting influences of storms and currents is such that Holland owes their very existence in a considerable degree to their preserving influences. It was in the time of William III (Prince of Orange, in Holland) that the attention of the Scotch Parliament was directed to their usefulness, and in the reign of George I the acts passed for the planting and preserving the same from injury were extended to the coasts of England. In passing further penalties for its inviolability; it was rendered penal not enly for any individual, not even excepting the lord of the manor, to cut the bent, but for any one to be in possession of any within eight miles of the coast. This plant is also applied to many economical purposes—hats, ropes, mats, &c., being manufactured from it. This grass flowers in the first and second weeks in July, and successively till the end of summer. The seed ripens in about three weeks after the time of flowering. George I the acts passed for the planting and

LETTER FROM FRANKFORT, GERMANY .- The fur trade of Germany-The proposal of Secreta-Guthrie to admit hatters' fur duty free-Shipments of German wine, cigars, hosiery, and woolen cloths to the United States .- The salaries of clerks, the wages of mechanics, laboring men and servants, &c .- Extract of a letter to the U S. State Department from a correspondent at Frankfort-on-the-Maine, Germany:

One of the chief articles of export is hatters' fur. This city and neighborhood are among the principal places of production, or rather for preparing this material.

The hare skins are brought here from Russia, Wallachia, Turkey, Austria, and Germany to the estimated amount of three millions of skins, or six thousand bales, andually. Much of this great supply is obtained at Leipsic, which is one of the centers of this trade.

About 1,500 bales of these skins are con-

About 1,500 bales of these skins are consumed by hatters in Germany and Austria, and the remaining 4,500 go into factories to be turned into hatters? fur for more distant markets. About five-sixths of this, or the produce of 3,750 bales, are forwarded to the United States, and the other one sixth, or the produce of 750 bales, goes to France, Italy, and other parts of Europe. The aggregate value of the supplies of this article sent yearly to the United States has been stated to me by one of the largest deal. has been stated to me by one of the largest dealers here to amount to $400,000 to $450,000. If he be correct, a great number of invoices must have escaped notice. He may, however, have had reference to the amount realized for the article in the United States.

France, England, and Belgium produce also in some quantity hares' fur, but the far greater amount of their export is Coney wool, of which this part of Europe furnishes very little.

In the last report of the honorable Secretary of the Treasury it is proposed to admit hare's fur "free of duty." This would certainly not prejudice any branch of industry in the United States, because neither hares nor rabbits, in any number, are grown there, and there are no establishments there to cut and prepare the fur, nor can there be any to compete with those of this country, in consequence of the higher price

Hatters' fur may be said to be an article of first necessity. It admitted free, it would, to be sure, enable our hatters to compete with those of France, but I do not think it would have the effect to increase the importation, because it is one of those articles of natural production the supply of which is not at all influenced by the demand, and the United States already receives the larger portion of what this country has to Nor would it check the importation of French hats materially, for those who have used such will probably not be deterred from continuing to do so by a trifle of difference in the

The export of German wines had rather in creased during the past year, but for the year now commencing it may not be so great in consequence of the bad vintage. Some have estimated this year's produce of the German vineyards at only one-fourth, and others at only one-eighth, of an ordinary yield. I confess I have not been able to gather information on this subject on which I can place full confidence. In fact the true character of the vintage is not yet known, but it is certain that prices are some 25 per cent. higher than one year ago.

It would be difficult for me at present to state the difference between the wholesale and retail rates, as profits here, as elsewhere, are constantly fluctuating.

The exports of stationery show an increase during the past three years, and I am assured the coming year will exhibit a further augmentation. This stationery is of the fancy order, such as cards, envelopes, &c.
Cigars now form an important item in the exports to the United States. Those from this neighborhood are mostly made of tobacco produced in the country, especially on the river lands between this and Carlsruhe, in Baden. Some of this tobacco is of a good quality, and the low rate of labor here makes the manufacture and export of cigars a large and profitable

The shipments of hosiery have not proved to be profitable, and will probably cease altogether. The article of varnished leather is in the same category. It has been said that the exports of jewelry ceased some three years ago, but such is not the case. At Hanau, in Hesse Cassel, at about half an hour from this, are some of the most renowned jewelry manufactories in all Germany, and large quantities are there made ex-pressly for the American market.

The trade to the United States in woolen cloths is mostly in the hands of two or three houses. Some establishments manufacture expressly for the American market, and other sup plies consist of goods that remain over from the great German fairs, and are sent to distant places, so that they may not press upon the home market, and affect the regular prices here. The last fair at Leipsic was a very bad one, in consequence of the eastern troubles. I am told that at the close of the fair dealers from this city secured large quantities of woolen goods at less than the manufacturer's price, and shipped them off to America, according to the conditions of the purchase.

As to the salaries of clerks and the prices of labor, I am enabled to give the following rates furnished me by a citizen of the place:

The salaries of clerks in banking house, $250 to $700 per year.

The salaries of clerks in merchant houses,

$200 to $600 per year. Servants in banking and merchant houses, $120 to $150 per year. Wages of a carpenter (per day) in summer,

29 cents net. Wages of a carpenter (per day) in winter, 27

Wages of a mason (per day) in summer 29

Wages of a mason (per day) in winter, 27 cents net.

Wages of a blacksmith per day forty cents, or fifty cents per week, and boarded; baker, forty cents per week and boarded; coopers, fortyeight cents per week, and board; house ser--women from $1 to 2 40 per month; men at all prices, from $6 and 8 down to their board at all prices, from $6 and 8 down to their board only. Recently the price of labor has somewhat advanced, but still there are a great many unemployed hands. Expert workmen and good experienced servants obtain higher rates than here stated, but there is a vast throng who cannot even get work at rates under these.

Peters, Cragg, & Co.'s Piano-Fortes.

FIVE PIANOS PER WEEK—The extraordinary demand for these Piano-Fortes has heretofore prevented the manufacturers from attending to many orders from abroad. Inaving, however, almost doubled the capacity of their establishment during the past year, and, having also introduced extensive improvements, they hope to be able to keep pace with the demand for the future. They are now turning out FIVE PIANOS PER WEEK, which number they expect to increase considerably during the summer and fall.

We have now in store an excellent assortment of these Pianos, which we are selling at from $25 to $50 less than similarly finished instruments of Eastern make can be sold in the market. The Last Great American Novel.

HE MISSING BRIDE, or MARIAM THE AVENGER, by Mrs. Emma D E. N. Southworth, author of "The Lost eiress," "The Wife's Victory," "Curse of Clifton," "The iscarded Daughter," "Retribution," tc. Complete in one journe of 535 pages, bound in cloth, for $125, or in two volmes, paper cover, for $1. Read the following opinions of the Dress:

the press:

"As a story writer this lady has ne superior. She ranks as the first female author of America, and deservedly so. Her works have attained the highest reputation, not only as works of fiction, but for the pecul ar beauty and fascination which she weaves into every page of her romances. Her description of character and incidents are life-like and vivid, and always charm and delight the reader. We predict for the "Missing Bride" not only a flattering reception, but a very extensive sale."—[Banner, Clarion, Pa.]

The river was at a stand this morning, with 5 feet water over the rocks on the falls. At Pittsburg private dispatches received this morning report 12 feet water in the channel.

A rise of two feet is also reported at Madison from the Kentucky river and other adjacent

The thermometer at 12 o'clock to-day stood at 85 in the shade.

We learn from Capt. McGill that the David White will not leave for New Orleans this evening. She has laid up for repairs. We stated a week or two ago that the White had paid the Northerner $1000 for pulling her off a bar on her late downward trip. It was only $500, and Capt. McGill considered the charge very reasonable.

The steamer C. Bealer, in going into the anal this morning, ran aground with her bow lodging against the abutment. She was still there at noon.

Messrs. Hyatt are selling the best Pittsburg coal at 9 to 91 cents by the boat-load and 12½ cents at retail.

STEAMBOAT NOTICES .- The David White, Capt. McGill, arrived from New Orleans yesterday afternoon, making the trip in 5 days and 17 hours. She did a heavy way business and brought 200 tons freight and a large crowd of passengers. Among the latter were Mrs. Taylor, the widow of Gen. Taylor, and her daughter, Mrs. Bliss. We thank Mr. Mitchell for favors. The White leaves for New Orleans this evening. She has splendid accommodations, great speed, and Capt. McG. is a very clever and polite gentleman and careful officer.

The fine steamer Empire, Capt. Meekin, arrived last night. Mr. Leyden has our thanks for favors. The Empire leaves for New Orleans to-morrow evening.

The Lexington arrived from St. Louis yesterday in place of the Highflyer, which had to lie over on account of the breakage of some of her machinery. The Lexington is the regular packet for St. Louis to-day.

The Thos. Swan arrived last night from the same port, making the trip in 48 hours. Mr. Frank Dennison, who is one of her plerks, favored us with late St. Louis dates. She returns to St. Louis to-morrow.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO.'S GENUINE

Cod Liver Oil.

FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, &c. THE late film of Rushton, Clark, & Co. being disselved by the DEATH OF W. L. RUSHTON (the only Rushton ever connected with the firm), THEIR GENUINE COD LIVER OIL will in future be prepared only by HEGEMAN, CLARK, & CO., surviving partners and sole successors. It was MR. CLARK who went to Newfoundland to superintend its manufacture, and he is the only Drugist who ever went from the U. S. for that purpose, and as he will continue his supervision of that branch of our business, we will warrant our OIL FURS and GENUINE. As success in its use depends upon its purity, be particular to see that the signature of HEGEMAN, CLARK, & CO., or RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO., is over the cork of each bottle. Hundreds of persons who had been using the Oil of other makers without success have been restored to health by the Purks OIL of OUR MANUFACURE. Be particular in ordering to specify HEGEMAN, CLARK, & CO., as it was Mr. Clark and not Rushton who has superintended its manufacture; and since Mr. Rushton's death there has been a Rushton's Oil introduced which is not in any way connected with Rushton, Clark, & Co., the only representatives of that firm being.

Sold by Wilder & Brother, Wilson, Starbird, & Smit, Lindenberger & Co., R. A. Robinson & Co., J. S. Morris & Son, J. R. Monisomery & Co., Bell, Tablot, & Co., Sutchiffe & Hughes E. Morris, and by druggists generally.

MELANCHOLY AFFAIR.-We learn from a gentleman who was an eye-witness, the following particulars of a most horrible and tragical affair that occurred at Pontotoc, Miss., on Monday last. It appears that Mr. Brown, the principal of day last. It appears that Mr. Brown, the principal of the male academy at Pontotoc, had puninished one of his pupils about a week since. A brother of the boy that was whipped, by the name of Wray, made threats against Mr. Brown for the aforesaid punishment, to which but little attention was paid. On Monday, young Wray, a youth some 17 or 18 years old, took a position where Mr. Brown would pass on his way home from school and waited until he came along.

from school and waited until he came along Wray attacked him.

The two clinched, and those who saw it thought it only to be a scuffle between them, until they saw B. run a few yards, his hands upon his abdomen, and fell down lifeless. The young man was arrested at once. Mr. Brown was a man much respected, and leaves a young widow.

day last year, and 35 linerease upon the number soin assertionesiday.

We have to report another decline in the market to-day of full one cent below last Wednesday, though a portion of the difference is attributable to the poorer quality of stock offered. The number, too, as will be seen by our figures, is above that of any day this year. It shows that there are sufficient cattle in the country to meet the demand. Besides, we are assured that another thousand would have been in the yards to-day only for fear of owners that the market would be so overstocked that it would bring ruin upon them. Several large drover were stopped within a few miles of the city, to await a better prospect.

were stopped within a few miles of the city, to await a better prospect.

Many of the cattle have been bought at prices that render it impossible for owners to sell at current prices to-day without losing $10 or $15 a head. Whether holding on will help them any remains to be seen.

The average weight of all the bullocks in market is full half a hundred below the average of some weeks past.

Swine.—Cattle go down and pigs up. They are very scarce and unusually high. That is 7½6 gross.

Among the cattle on market this week there were from Kentucky: B. Sudduth, 66head; E. R. Rogers, 66 head; 104 head, Frank Ford; and 63 head, M. H. Parker.

Eighty head of common 4 year eld steers from Indiana, by Cramer and Rowan, average 64 wet, will sell for just about $62.50 each, ranging from 9½ to 11, and from pretty rough to fair and good.

S. Sherman is selling 66 Kentucky cattle, by E. R. Rogers, that will average $70 and 7 cwt. They are grades and common, and are only about a middling good lot.

Sixty-seven good Kentucky steers, by D. Sudduth, are port grades, and fair average quality. We say 16 sold at $79, called 8 cwt by seller and short of that by buyer. Sold by D. L. Belden.

Jos. H. Williams has 154 head of Texas cattle, many of which are marked with the distinctive type of the old stock of Spanish cattle in that country. They are of a dull yellow or dun color, with black noses and dark circles around the eyes, immense horns, long legs, and agile as deer. Their meat looks well, is fine grained, but generally tough, though it may be well coated with fat. They are more profitable to the butcher than the consumer. This lot will probably average 6 yearsold, 6 cwt and $60. Some of them are well fed and sold for 11c.
The poorest sold at 9½c on the scales, 55 h to the cwt.

These cattle were bought by a Mr. Taylor of Missouri, who drove them up there and sold them to Wm. Rankin, who fed them in Illinois through the winter. They were driving some five or six months, feeding along on the prairies. They cost not much odds of $36 for purchase and transportation, leaving $24 for pay for feeding.
